Writing Situation

A "fad" is a fashion in dress, actions, items, or speech that is popular for a brief time. (i.e., Pokemon, baggy jeans, break dancing, scooters.) Think about some of the fads that students on your own campus follow. Which ones are acceptable at your school? Which fads have been banned by school officials? Think back to last year's fads and note which ones are still "in." (Allow an opportunity for discussion.)

Directions for Writing

The California school that she has chosen is yours. Write an article for her newspaper in which you report on the current acceptable fads at your school. Include information on which fads were popular last year but are no longer "in."

Writing Conventions

For this writing task, students will write an informational essay that:

- a. is written to an identified audience.
- b. establishes and supports a central idea.
- c. concludes with a paragraph that summarizes the points.
- d. uses fluid and legible cursive or joined italic.
- e. demonstrates grade-level appropriate sentence structure, grammar, punctuation, capitalization, and spelling.
