Preparation

Room

The room should look inviting and have lots of interesting material on the walls at the height of the students. My classroom has one cork bulletin board and one chalkboard. I make sure there are enough chairs and that the tables are clean. With 7 or less children, I use one long table where I stand at the head. With 8-12 children, I use a second table placed across one end of the first table to form a T. This way I can see all of them, and the girls and boys can separate themselves from each other. For whatever reason, at this age they still seem more happy to be with their own genders.

This year I am in a different classroom with two small bulletin boards, a chalkboard, and a big blank back wall. The outside of the door has a poster with the names of God while the inside has a poster with John 3:16. Even if the kids don't listen to me, they can absorb God's Word from the visuals around them.

At the top of the left wall is a foldout banner reading, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." My cork boards have a scalloped edge of vines and grapes which I bought at a teacher's supply store. I bought extra so if part gets ripped or lost, I can replace it without worrying if the pattern has gone out of print. On the left side, I have a National Geographic map of the Middle East as well as a map of the world. The bulletin board on that side has a poster of Sumer with its achievements and one of Mesopotamia, both of which I again got from a teacher's supply store. To the right of the blackboard are two charts listing the kings of Judah and Israel.

The huge back wall has on the left a poster of Moses in a basket and one of Joseph in his coat of many colors. There are all kinds of ancient Egyptian culture educational supplies in various catalogs and stores. I got some punch out various shaped pictures with labels of Egyptian daily life. To the right are two posters about Egyptian inventions. I put these on the back because they are more pagan and I would rather the students had their backs to them most of the time. Also, eventually, it will give a sense of how hard it was for the Jews to leave a land where God was honored and go to such a different place with a strange language and idols.

At the top of the right hand wall is a foldout banner reading, "Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life." The right hand bulletin board under it has contemporary praise posters and our Bible verse, "These are written so that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in His Name." [all verses are from the ESV Bible translation unless otherwise indicated] The contemporary praise posters come from a Christian bookstore. I also have some scenic printouts with verses which I printed from an email. Next to these, to the right and above one another, are two posters of the tabernacle. One is a cut away view.

In the front of the classroom, above the blackboard, is a 12 panel, colored timeline: creation, fall, flood, Babel, Abraham, Moses, judges, David, kings, exile, return, Christ. To the right is a chart of
